PRESS RELEASE

Harrison White PC is now KD Trial Lawyers

Familiar Faces, Same Home...New Name

The partners at Harrison White, P.C. are excited to announce a name change. The new firm, Killoren, Kissinger, Dantin, Denton, & Dunham, PC to be called KD Trial Lawyers, brings together over 100 years of combined legal experience earned by attorneys Tom Killoren, Jr., Wes Kissinger, Jeremy Dantin, Allison Dunham, Steve Denton, Ryan McCarty, and Jonathan Lounsberry. Original founding member Ben Harrison will remain of counsel. Changes will be effective Monday, April 11th. The firm will continue to focus on personal injury, workers' compensation, criminal defense, and domestic/family law. According to managing partner Wes Kissinger: "The partners are very happy to begin this new chapter for our firm, but we remain dedicated to the old principles of hard work and integrity when it comes to representing our clients. We are thankful for our trusted generations of clients and the support from our local community."
